

Mansi Dhata

Born and brought up in Delhi, she has been an athlete, playing basketball all throughout school at state and national level. Although a really bad singer, absolutely loves indulging herself with music. She is a final year student of international relations at Jawaharlal Nehru University in Delhi with keen interest in the social sector. She strongly believes in the power of education and hopes to continue work in the said field.