

Priyanka Jain, MD

I was born and brought up in Lucknow, UP. Attended Loreto Convent school. My father was a orthopedic surgeon and I always knew growing up I wanted to become a doctor.

I went to Kasturba Medical College, Mangalore for my MBBS. After moving to United States , I did my residency in Medicine from Franklin Square Medical Center, Baltimore.

I joined Kaiser Permanente medical group in California in 2005 and have been practicing medicine since then. I teach residents and medical students. I also volunteer at India Community Center free clinic, Rotacare free clinic and work for domestic violence.

I enjoy running, working out, gardening and cooking.